

ALLIES SEIZE CATANIA; RUSSIANS ENTER OREL

The War Today...

By DeWitt MacKenzie
AP War Analyst

A COUPLE more spikes have been driven into the coffin of Hitlerism in the capture of two highly strategic cities—Orel on the Russian front, and ancient Catania in the northeast corner of Sicily.

Both these cities were vital anchor points for the Nazis. The heavily fortified and strongly held railway center of Orel has for almost two years been the hinge for Hitler's great battle line between this point, not far below Moscow, and the sea of Azov.

Catania, crouching under the great volcano of Etna, has been the powerful position to which the Nazis and Italians hooked the left wing of the front which they threw across the last remaining tip of northeast Sicily in defense of Messina and access to the Italian mainland, only two miles across the strait from that port.

These two operations, while widely separated and seemingly having little relation to each other, are parts of offensives which in reality are acting as a pair of mighty pincers on the German front in Russia. This is so because (1) if the Russians have the reserve power with which to follow up their noble capture of Orel, it will endanger Hitler's entire right wing, and because (2) victory in Sicily brings the Allies nearer to possible invasion of the Balkans, which would further jeopardize that Nazi right wing.

In short, Hitler is being pushed steadily toward that day when he will have to pull back his entire vast line of more than a thousand miles in Russia in order to reach new positions which will afford greater security.

WHILE this is a historic moment for the Allies, we should remember that these two captures are parts of continuing operations. Fierce fighting lies ahead in both theaters.

In Sicily the terrain within the remaining triangle which the Axis forces are defending is rugged and hilly. It's well adapted to defense and has been strongly fortified. There are said to be close to 100,000 Axis troops assigned to the desperate task of holding this "last ditch," something more than half of them being Germans.

Thus we have the makings of a great battle among the innumerable hilly strongholds, many of which probably will have to be taken at the point of the bayonet—assuming that the Axis forces don't fold up, and there's been no indication of this yet among the Germans. Ultimately the enemy must surrender or be annihilated, for there is no escape from this triangular trap for the vast majority of the Axis troops.

It's too soon to assay the full import of the Red capture of Orel. The cracking of this major fortress represents one of the great victories of the war. Into it have gone the lives of many scores of thousands of fighting men of both Germany and Russia.

Incidentally, it's only 10 days ago

U. S. Liberators Bombing Heart of Axis Oil Fields

LABOR TEST ON FARMS LOOMS

Next Few Weeks Will Tell Whether Soldiers Needed For Harvesting

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—The next two or three weeks may tell whether farmers will need the Army's help in harvesting this year's big crop.

The Agriculture department's extension service, an agency that has been directing recruitment of volunteer workers, said 1943 harvesting operations starting this month would be the test.

Signs of possible serious shortages already are bobbing up. North Dakota has made formal request for 15,000 soldiers to help gather the spring wheat crop. The request, approved by Food Administrator Marvin Jones and Manpower Commissioner Paul V. McNutt, is pending before the war department.

The government promised last spring to make troops available in an emergency. Although soldiers have been used in a few areas on minor farm jobs, the North Dakota request, if granted, would be the first big-scale use of servicemen.

More than 60,000 agricultural workers have been imported from Mexico and the Caribbean area. Among Larger Tasks The biggest single job this month will be harvesting, curing and marketing the flue-cured tobacco crop in Georgia, North Carolina and South Carolina. Other big August jobs include cutting and storing hay in the dairy belt, harvesting vegetables in various parts of the country, and spring wheat.

The extension service said farm labor needs must be met primarily through local mobilizations. The Agriculture department estimated 11,749,000 persons were employed on farms on July 1 and that an additional 200,000 full-time workers be required through August, September and October.

The extension service reported that many of the more than a half million extra workers placed on farms by July 1 were boys and girls and women.

"Reports from all parts of the country seem to indicate," the service said, "that farmers generally are now willing to accept city workers, especially in those areas where the need is greatest and crops are in danger of being lost."

HITLER PLEA FOR MUSSOLINI DENIED

MADRID, Aug. 5.—King Vittorio Emanuele of Italy politely but firmly turned down a request by Adolf Hitler that Benito Mussolini be handed over to the Germans for safekeeping following his fall from power. The King's refusal was given to Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering, who was sent to Rome by Hitler last week to find out why Mussolini was deposed, travelers from the Italian capital said.

Goering was reported to have told the King that Hitler feared Mussolini's life was in danger as long as he remained in Italy.

Members of Two Families Missing In "Flash" Flood

(By Associated Press)

SUTTON, W. Va., Aug. 5.—The bodies of two children who were trapped in their home by a flash flood early today were recovered, while 15 other persons were missing after high water swept through sections of Braxton and Gilmer counties.

J. Holt Byrne, publisher of the Braxton Central at Sutton, said state police and county officers had recovered the bodies of Robert Queen, 10, and his one-year-old sister, Alma, at Roulins, about two miles from Heaters.

Byrne added that their mother, Mrs. Lydia Queen, 38, of Heaters, and three other children, Martin, 12, Phyllis, 8, and Peggy, 2, were missing when their home was swept away by raging O'Brien Fork creek.

Also missing in the Heaters area, Byrne reported, were Mrs. Tom Daugherty, 50, who was visiting with the Queen family, and her son, Gaylord Daugherty, 22, both of Heaters.

The Queen home, Byrne said, was washed into the swollen stream while the occupants were asleep. About 10 other homes also were swept from their foundations in the section, he added.

Byrne, who toured the stricken area in company with officers, said that Mr. and Mrs. George Yeager and five children, and Mr. and Mrs. Chris Simons, were missing at Copen, near Heaters. They were trapped by flooded Salt Lick creek, which joins O'Brien's Fork about one mile below Heaters and empties into the Little Kanawha river at Burnsville.

The family formerly resided at West Point and moved a year ago to the Lawson Kennel farm on the Lincoln highway.

Pvt. Pierce, who entered service in 1941, had been overseas for sometime. The last word his parents received from him was letter written June 23, in which he told them he was seeing action in the South Pacific.

He attended Lisbon grade schools and David Anderson High school for two years.

Alliance Man Named SHILLER of Alliance, former Stark county engineer, will become resident engineer for the state highway department in Stark county, Monday.

Heretofore, the resident engineer's work for both Stark and Mahoning counties had been handled by the Mahoning county engineer. However, the highway work is considered sufficiently heavy in Stark county to warrant designation of a resident engineer for the county.

SUITS SEEN IN MINE SEIZURES

Government Warns of Retaliation In the Event Operators Sue

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—An underground of talk about possible damage suits against the government for seizing the coal mines during the recent strikes brought from Interior Secretary Ickes today a warning the government might charge the operators for running the mines.

Representatives of the coal industry have demanded return of the mines to the owners and Ickes, the mine boss in his capacity as solid fuels administrator, has withheld a reply.

He made it clear, however, in laying down terms for return of the mines on an "if and when" basis, that in any case where the government is subject to a damage claim.

"I expressly reserves the right to assert by way of offset to any such claimed liability, benefits resulting to the mining company from government possession and control..." The interior secretary thinks the owners should regard government control of the mines as a benefit. He contended government seizure kept the mines going and making money whereas they would have lain idle and profitless.

It was not clear how he would measure the extent of the "benefits" or how long a period of time he would claim they ran.

He has held the mines for more than three months—through strikes by John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers — and Lewis has threatened to strike again if the mines are turned back to the owners before Oct. 31.

Meanwhile, Ickes was awaiting an opinion from Attorney General Biddle as to when he must return the properties under terms of the new anti-strike law.

GERMANS FIGHT BITTERLY TO CHECK SOVIETS

Red Army Completes Occupation of First City to Fall During Summer

By HENRY C. CASSIDY MOSCOW, Aug. 5.—The Red army battled its way through the streets of Orel today, completing occupation of the first great city to be wrested from the Germans in the summer campaign.

The Germans offered stubborn resistance, throwing tanks into bitter street fighting, but the action appeared to be only a rear-guard defense rather than a serious effort to challenge the Russians for possession of the key fortified city.

Red army infantry storming down from the hills east of Orel swept across the Oka river and were reported mopping up the enemy's rearguards block by block.

Frontline dispatches said the Germans still were offering bitter resistance northwest and southwest of Orel in an effort to cover the retreat of the main body of their troops through the bottleneck to the west.

The Soviet army newspaper Red Star declared the Nazis had stepped up their rearline firepower in those areas, virtually doubling the number of guns for each mile of the front, and were counter-attacking with groups of 15 to 25 tanks.

Soviet Airmen Busy Soviet bombers, however, were reported blasting at the enemy's support lines and main bases beyond the Orel salient, concentrating on the communications center of Bryansk, Nikitovka, Yasnovotaya and Iovalskaya behind the Kharkov front and Mga on the Leningrad front also were subjected to heavy air attacks.

(The Berlin radio announced last night Nazi forces had evacuated Orel. Describing the retreat as an "evacuation according to plan," the announcement said German forces had been taken up previously prepared positions behind the city after destroying everything of value.)

The Russian announcement that the city's defenses had cracked after 24 days of savage fighting, during which Soviet armored units, infantry and cavalry stormed them from three directions, listed vast stores of ammunition and guns as captured.

More than 2,500 Germans were killed and 18 enemy tanks were knocked out as the Germans fought bitterly and even counterattacked in desperate attempts to check the red army masses pouring into the city's streets, a Soviet communique said.

Nazis Concentrate Forces In Italy

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 5.—Travelers who left Rome three days ago estimated today that Germany now has approximately 15 to 18 divisions (between 225,000 and 270,000 men) in northern Italy and is moving with incredible speed to increase this concentration of military strength north of the Po river.

Although American bombers recently left the railroad yards at Bologna in a shambles, the travelers said, Nazi military engineers quickly restored traffic on the main lines to expedite movement of German troops to strategic centers.

Throughout northern Italy, where the Nazis are feverishly constructing defenses in depth throughout the Po valley, eye-witnesses said they noted strong anti-German feeling expressed in signs, chalked on walls, many of which read, "Germans, Get Out!"

Adding to the bitterness of the North Italian populace was the discovery by police of huge caches of food in the homes of Fascist party members, many of whom were engaged in black market operations, the travelers declared.

48-Hour Week Adopted for Sebring, Tri-County Area

CANTON, Aug. 5.—The War Manpower commission's labor-management committee here today ordered a 48-hour work week for workers in Stark, Tuscarawas and Carroll counties, and at Sebring in Mahoning county.

J. W. Reinhardt, WMC director for the Canton area, said employers would have 30 days in which to attain the 48-hour week, adding the order applied to all employers of eight or more persons.

Applications for exemptions will be studied by the labor-management committee and the area WMC office, Reinhardt said.

U.S. Soldiers Come To Grips With Japs In Munda Battle

(By Associated Press) ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Aug. 5.—United States infantrymen fought at close grips today with Japanese on the south ridge of the Munda airfield opposite its center after breaking through a long, covered trench.

The battle for possession of the New Georgia island air strip, which long since has ceased to serve Japanese planes but which in American hands would pose an aerial threat to enemy bases in the northern Solomons and on New Britain, was a slow-moving and violent one.

The infantrymen now near its center came in from the east along the coast. Across the strip from them and about a mile north of the airfield, other Americans strove to route the Japanese from the western slope of Bibolo hill preparatory to moving against the field.

Behind Jap Positions (A naval spokesman at headquarters of Admiral William F. Halsey, Jr.'s command in the South Pacific said that capture of Bibolo and Kokengole hills was expected momentarily. He added that a drive past these positions would put the American forces on the sea coast behind Japanese lines, thus pinning the defenders within a small area and cutting off all routes of escape.)

Along the coast on the western end of the field, many of the Japanese were frightened from their foxholes into the nearby reef-studded waters by swarms of lighted-escorted bombers which dropped 45 tons of high explosives Wednesday.

Navy Corsairs saw to it that no aid for the tottering Munda garrison should be forthcoming from the north. They tore into the enemy base on Shortland island below Bougainville, destroying seven float planes, three barges and a small cargo ship.

The Japanese airforce, which lost 345 planes trying to stem the Solomons offensive during the first month, starting June 30, sent 18 Zeros against American positions on Rendova island, below Munda. Thirteen were shot down. We lost two.

Commenting on the order from the War Manpower commission that "commencing Oct. 1, 1943, it will be necessary for local boards to be prepared to fill a portion of their calls from registrants now properly classified in Class 3-A, Col. C. W. Goble, director Ohio State Selective Service system said today that it is necessary that we prepare now to make available every man between the ages of 18 and 38 without reference to family status.

"It is imperative that manpower needs of the armed forces be met without impairing critical war production," he said.

Start Reclassifying Now "It is impossible at this time," Col. Goble pointed out, "to determine the number of 3-A registrants it will be necessary for local boards to reclassify and have available for induction by Oct. 1, when it has been designated that local boards be prepared to fill a portion of their calls with such registrants."

"However, the directive which has been mailed to Ohio's 350 local boards from national headquarters clearly states that: 'It is not desirable to reclassify such registrants out of Class 3-A any faster than they are needed, but in order to have the required number available for induction by Oct. 1, 1943, local boards should start reclassifying immediately.'

"In line with the policy of both national and state headquarters," Col. Goble added, "local boards should continue to select for induction registrants in the following order: (1) Men with no dependents; (2) men with collateral dependents; (3) men who have wives with whom they maintain a bona fide family relationship in their homes; (4) men whose status was acquired prior to Dec. 8, 1941; (5) men placed in Class 1-A or 1-B because they left an agricultural occupation or endeavor, or because they were engaged in a non-deferrable activity or occupation; (6) married men with minor children with whom they maintain a bona fide family relationship in their homes, provided such status was acquired prior to Dec. 8, 1941."

"In making such selections from the above groups, local boards will continue to give due regard to the essential requirements of agriculture, war production, and activity in support of the war effort."

PATERNO ALSO REPORTED IN BRITISH HANDS

Germans, Abandoning Etna Defense Line, Retreat Toward Messina

BY DANIEL DE LUCE ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 5.—British Eighth army troops seized Catania early today and swept around the base of Mt. Etna to the northwest capturing Paterno, 10 miles away, to crumble the German line on the east coast of Sicily, headquarters announced.

Catania fell to the Eighth army at 8:30 a. m. (2:30 a. m., Eastern War time today, after a bitter defense since July 15, and the British pounded ahead in a lightning advance clockwise around the base of Mt. Etna.

The heart of the German army corps appeared to be broken. Paterno is 10 miles northwest of Catania, and it was assumed that Misterbianco, three miles northwest of Catania, also had been engulfed.

German withdrawal of non-essential personnel from Sicily has been in progress for the last five or six days, it was learned authoritatively.

The German defense road around Mt. Etna was blasted apart by the British successes today and the next German line was expected to run from Taormina across the northeastern tip of the island to the seacoast on the northeast behind San Fratello, which already is menaced by U. S. Seventh army troops.

May Abandon Etna Line This would mean abandonment of the whole Mt. Etna area by the Axis.

The whole German left flank based on the heights of Mt. Etna was in grave danger from the British success today after a terrific and incessant assault since the Allied offensive on the entire Sicilian front began on Sunday.

Pressed back from the western edge of the Catania plain and smothered under a furious, massed artillery barrage that continued day and night, the German line around bomb and fire-scarred Catania broke early today.

Catania was taken despite strong enemy resistance, a special communique said.

The Allied advance continued all along the front, headquarters said, as American, Canadian and British troops drove the Germans back toward their last escape port of Messina, 55 miles north of Catania, and tremendous aerial and sea blows were hammered home in support of the great drive.

British warships rained shells upon the Taormina road and railway midway between Catania and Messina yesterday, giving that exposed communication center what was believed to be its heaviest bombardment yet.

Support Ground Action American cruisers and destroyers ranging the northeast coast continued their day and night shelling of German positions ahead of the American Seventh army troops swinging rapidly along the coast beyond San Stefano.

From the air, Allied bombers and fighters swept over enemy communication centers and supply lines to disrupt the German defense. Flying Fortresses again smashed at docks and submarine bases at Ter Cepo was in charge of contests and games. A softball game was held.

Group singing led by Carl Williams, piano numbers by Capt. Robert Barton and vocal solo by Miss Martha Jane Stirling, followed the picnic supper. Curtis Vaughan served as announcer for the program events.

Back to Work Movement Gains In Pottery Strike

The local, whose 200 kiln members, walked out four days ago, declared that they will ask all other potters to strike if the company fails to settle the seniority dispute by Friday.

A number of the 300 potters to join the strike as sympathizers yesterday were reported returning to their jobs today.

APPLE SELLERS

Their devotion to immediate action on a post-war welfare program for service men is causing some enthusiasts to get their current history garbled.

Contrary to the impression being carelessly spread, service men after World War I did not turn en masse to selling apples and standing in breadlines. President Roosevelt is the latest to contribute to this misrepresentation.

Some service men may have turned to selling apples after the war. Some may turn to selling apples after this war. In some cases, it might even be their trade. But in 1919, service men did not sell apples in droves. That was to come 10 years later, after service men had been taken back into the civilian economy, except for the minority that preferred to follow a career of veteraning.

Apple selling and breadline standing became national institutions in the great depression that government still was grappling with when World War II dissolved mass unemployment in a new war boom.

There are enough complications in dealing with the question of a post-war welfare program for service men without adding historic misrepresentations. Veterans of World War I did not sell apples as middle-aged members of the unemployed because they were neglected after the war, but because the war created economic problems that the combined intelligence of all the governments then in existence couldn't solve.

PILES OF RUBBLE

Hamburg has been added to the destroyed cities of World War II. Its population has been terrorized and scattered. The German government, fearing a similar fate for Berlin, has ordered its evacuation. Aerial bombing of cities now has exceeded the expectations of all but the most enthusiastic champions of air power.

They are confirmed in their belief that more damage can be perpetrated in a few minutes of "saturation" bombing than was done in the sacking of Rome, Carthage, or Moscow by direct invasion. They are confirmed in their confidence of air power's ability to exact a heavier price for war than any nation can afford to pay.

The piles of rubble that represented great cities are mounting in number, but the war is not over. There is no method yet known to ward off bombers, provided the power behind them is willing to pay the price. There is not even a known way of making the price exorbitant, despite British success against German bombers; Germany undoubtedly would be retaliating with mass raids on Britain today had not its fundamental strategy been altered by the stalemate in Russia.

And still the reduction of cities to rubble is hardly out of the experimental stage. More powerful planes and more destructive bombs must wait on the outcome of the war now in progress. The weapon so powerful that men will not dare to raise it in anger lest they destroy themselves is in sight.

NO EASY OUTS

Mussolini's disappearance has come and gone, and the Allies still are waging war in Italy. It has been a good lesson.

There will be no easy outs in this war, except accidental ones. A Mussolini, a Hitler and a Tojo can be toppled without positive effect.

What the people feel is less important than what their leaders do. Revolution against a government rarely is clean-cut and incisive; it is frequently a grinding process of trial and error.

Soldiers in the field, being at grips with war's realism all the time, are not so likely to make the common civilian mistake of expecting more than the circumstances warrant. Gen. Eisenhower, Gen. Alexander and their staffs probably anticipated nothing but the prospect of a hard campaign in Sicily, developing into a hard campaign in southern Italy, with the Germans ultimately making a tremendous stand somewhere in the north of the peninsula. They were not unmindful of the possibility that something might happen to make things better than they promised to be, but they did not depend on it. Their countrymen now are reconciled to a similar point of view. No easy outs are to be expected—in Italy, in Germany, or in Japan.

AUGUST SOUND EFFECT

All the time wasted in hunting for the simile to describe the sound of locusts pulsing in the sultry air of August could have been saved by greater familiarity with the war worker's alarm clock—the kind that substitutes a buzzer for a bell.

It is indistinguishable on an August afternoon from the whirling of the locusts in the trees outside the window—the same rhythmic rise to the crescendo, the same dwindling into silence. But one would need to be listening to the clocks at exactly the right time to get the complete effect—the time when they are buzzing by the score. Otherwise, the distinguishing characteristic of August's chief sound effect would be lost. When the locusts are in tune, they never stop.

Their shrill buzzing is caught up, endlessly by new performers as old ones tire and run down. Science says the relentless music is concerned somehow with mating, but humans understand it only as something that comes with August, like burned-out grass, goldenrod and tomatoes by the bushel. So accustomed are they to the sound effect they forget it is there, but let it stop for a moment and the silence roars until it is overcome by another 22-22-22-22-22-22-22. What would August be without it?

OCT. 1 IS FATHER'S DAY

Everyone is taking an apologetic tone and looking drawn and sad, but pre-Pearl Harbor fathers won't be noticeably gloomy because it has been made known finally, once and for all, that Oct. 1 is going to be their day.

They are relieved. They have no idea how many of them may have to be inducted before military demands for manpower are satisfied, but they still are relieved. They even are relieved when they hear themselves being referred to as the "bottom of the barrel." Fathers have been called worse than that. Highly as they rate their contribution to the American cause as plain fathers, they will welcome the opportunity to impress their hyper-critical pre-Pearl Harbor offspring with their new importance as potential key men in the armed forces.

Actually, the war manpower commission's announcement that after Oct. 1 fathers through the age of 37 will be taken according to order numbers, subject to the customary discretions, surprises no one. Every father who tried to figure his chances coldly and analytically, reached the same conclusion: That when he was needed he would be called and meanwhile there was nothing to worry about—in short, that he was in the same boat as all other men, single, married without children, or married with post-Pearl Harbor children. All that's different now is establishment of a definite date. Oct. 1 is father's day in World War II, barring unforeseen changes in the meantime.

WITH SUCH a breathtaking and thrilling chain of planetary configurations, almost any extravagance of prediction might be happily discounted. Events, adventures and situations unpredictable, and unprecedented are probable. While there is this sign of sky-rocket and explosive precipitancy there are also sound and logical auguries and justifications. All in all it is a time for reaching for the highest goals, with all the acumen and skill possible, but there should be sound, safe and sane preparation should a dramatic windfall suddenly materialize. Financial success, promotion, public acclaim, romance and adventure in all phases of human life are likely to eventuate. Accept what the planetary gods send with balance as well as gratitude.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a memorable year of dramatic, thrilling and possibly unprecedented adventures, romances and experiences out of the ordinary or unexpected. Promotion, honors, favors, publicity, social or professional fulfillments, sustained by the solid values of increased credit, financial expansion, and many objective realizations. These should be sought for with efficiency, skill, talent and the utilization of personality, charm and power.

A child born on this day may be exceptionally fitted for the attainment of high place and power in life, through its own worldly equipment as well as by its innate qualities of mind and temperament.

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

Efficiency of Hearing Aids

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D. WHEN THE victim of deafness first becomes aware of his condition, he goes through various psychological experiences. One of these is that he reads about hearing aids and even if he doesn't like the idea of wearing a device on his head, he hasn't the slightest doubt that he can find one that will suit his case perfectly and allow him full hearing.

It is when he gets it that his first disillusionment is likely to occur. I think it is too bad that the deafness victim pins so much hope on these hearing aids because the final disappointment is proportionately hard to bear.

A study made by Drs. Senturia, Silverman and Harrison in St. Louis took 30 patients with different forms of deafness and tried them on all known kinds of hearing aids. Seventeen did not hear any better, or so little better as to make the use of the instrument valueless.

Operative Deafness

In efforts made to relieve chronic deafness I am not overlooking the possibility of the operation devised a year or so ago by Dr. Julius Tempert of New York. That has had a remarkable record of success in properly selected cases. But again it is not a cure-all for all kinds of deafness, as the men who are doing the operation will be the first to tell you.

Another experience that people who are becoming gradually deaf go through is that they think they are going to get better. They can't believe it is going to happen to them. There must be a cure somewhere, in this modern age of miracles. It is of course, on the surface a shame to take the hope away from them.

But it is kindness in the long run, because they miss the golden opportunity of learning the one thing that will be the greatest comfort to them in the future—lip reading. They stand a much better chance to learn it while they still have some hearing left, but how many of them that you know even tried?

Types of Hearing Aids

To go back to hearing aids — it was found at the Central Institute for the Deaf at St. Louis that different aids might prove best for different people. In other words, there is no one kind of hearing aid that is "best." The kinds of deafness were classified as three: (1) middle ear, or conduction deafness; this is the most numerous group; the deafness is due to slowly growing adhesions in the middle ear which prevent the movements of the ear drum getting to the nerve of hearing; (2) nerve deafness in which the nerve of the organ of hearing slowly degenerates; and (3) mixed forms.

The first type is the most favorable for hearing aids, the second the least. Sometimes one kind of instrument worked better, sometimes the other. Bone conduction aids, for instance, are not necessarily better than air conduction aids. In general, the bone conduction instruments worked better in conduction deafness, the air conduction instrument in perception deafness.

In any case the maximum improvement is obtained only after considerable trial by the patient, and training with the help of a lip reading teacher.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendinging has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendinging, 235 E. 45th st., New York. NEW YORK—More than 400,000 pounds of clothing have been distributed to needy children in isolated sections of the United States, child war victims in Britain and needy youngsters in Puerto Rico as a result of the National Children's Clothing Crusade, according to Dorothy Canfield Fisher, of the advisory committee.

Fortress Reaches Base With Enemy Pilots In Pursuit

(By Associated Press)

AT A U. S. BOMBER STATION IN ENGLAND, Aug. 5.—The flying Fortress "Slow Time Sally" skimming German rooftops and North sea waves all the way back home from Wamernuende with 15 enemy fighters in hot pursuit and anti-aircraft batteries firing at point blank range.

That's quite a feat, for the Fortresses are designed for high altitude flying.

The Sally, with two engines shot out of commission, staggered through her bomb run with a swarm of yellow-nosed Focke-Wulfs attacking her. Straggling behind the formation, the pilot, Second Lieut. Joseph L. Simmons, 28, Denison, Tex., began violent evasive action.

First he dived steeply and then leveled off. But he was unable to regain altitude, so he streaked homeward never higher than 500 feet and sometimes only 25 feet off the ground, the crew said.

Roaring around trying to shake off the enemy upset the situation inside the bomber. The bombardier, Second Lieut. William T. Schindler, 20, Flint, Mich., was momentarily pinned to the top of the nose compartment by a machinegun which lifted him up by the chin.

Bombardier Unruffled. The gunners clung precariously to their weapons and tried to lodge streams of anti-aircraft fire. The Sally landed safely at her home base with only one of the crewmen slightly wounded.

Sergt. Vincent C. McGinnis, 19, Freeport, Ill., was grazed on the forehead by a shell fragment which ricocheted off the ammunition belt.

The Sally lost her two engines 25 minutes before the target was reached. The crew said the calmest man aboard was Schindler. With his eyes glued to the bombsight, he was unaware of the fighter attacks as nine Focke-Wulf 190s broke for the bomber's nose. Reaching the target, he calmly directed Simmons to shift to the left "to counter-act drift."

When Simmons yelled over the interphone, "My God, when are you going to drop those bombs?" the unruffled bombardier replied, "I was just synchronizing." Then letting the explosives go dead on the target, he reached for his guns.

The crewmen said the 52-second bomb run seemed like eternity.

FBI Nabs Deception Expert Who Helped Many Escape Draft

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—The Department of Justice today announced arrest of a man accused of teaching New Yorkers how to evade the draft by simulating deafness, mental incompetence, and organic disorders.

The man under arrest was listed as Stephen Weinberg, 50, and was termed by the department "a notorious impersonator and deceptionist of World War days."

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover asserted his master deception was in 1921, when he conducted Princess Fatima, sultana of Kabul Afghanistan, on a diplomatic tour of Washington while posing as a representative of the state department. He served two years in the Federal penitentiary at Atlanta in connection with this offense, Hoover said.

Weinberg was apprehended in New York City by FBI agents on a charge of violating the National Selective and Training Service act. Hoover said Weinberg, through various fraudulent schemes, had caused the rejection or deferment of a number of New Yorkers, that he operated under the name of Stanley C. Weyman, and had offices in a mid-town New York hotel where he consulted "clients."

Weinberg's fees ranged from a few hundred dollars to more than $2,000, depending upon the service performed, the Justice department said.

Draft Law Violations Fall Below Figures Of Last War

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Reporting 877 convictions for failure to register with draft boards in nearly three years enforcement of the conscription law, J. Edgar Hoover said today that by contrast with the last war compliance was "in a spirit of willingness and cheerfulness."

In the first year of the 1917 draft law, the director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation said in a statement, there were about 10,000 prosecutions for failure to register.

By comparison, Hoover added, the FBI handled only 7,190 complaints from October, 1940, to July 1, and of these 5,455 were not willful violators. 435 were found to be ineligible and 383 agreed to immediate induction without prosecution.

There have been about 22,000,000 registrations of men from 18 to 37 years of age.

Recalling that approximately 20 persons were killed in disorders resulting from opposition to the draft in World War I, Hoover said that in the present war, "organized opposition to registration under the Selective Service act has been negligible."

Around 3,000,000 men were drafted in the last war. Twice that number have been conscripted thus far in the current conflict.

A total of 20 million dead-weight tons of shipping is scheduled for production in American shipyards in 1943.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day. If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with burning and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

CHAPTER TWENTY-FIVE
Christopher Wain did not return to Broadfields until the day before the Puppy Sweepstakes, almost a week later. He found Ann lying on the chaise-longue by the window in a pink negligee.

"Well," Christopher greeted her, "what's all this I hear from Dr. Matheson about not sleeping properly and all that sort of thing?"

"I had a relapse," said Ann. "Bringing again."

"Thanks for the flowers." She gestured toward the huge mass of red tulips that Tom had sent only that morning.

"He grinned. 'I thought you'd like 'em—No, but seriously, you're looking pretty well.'"

"Pretty well? I thought I looked beautiful."

"You do. What I should have said was, you look pretty strong." I'm going to the Puppy Sweepstakes tomorrow.

"Hey—Who said so?"

"I said so."

"What's Dr. Matheson say?"

"I didn't ask him."

"Because you know what he'd tell you."

"I don't care what he'd tell me. I've been looking forward to it for a month."

"Well, that's out!" Christopher said firmly. "You don't have to be there; Rowdy will do very nicely by herself."

"I expect her to do more than just nicely."

"You're going to be incorrigible in the dog show business. May the best dog win and I've got the best dog."

Wain went to the door and whistled. There was an answering scuffle of claws on the floors as Rowdy and Gretel stamped like a brace of lions into the room. Christopher lined them up together as they would stand in the show ring. It was the first time in more than two weeks that Ann had seen the two of them together. It was difficult to believe that Rowdy had once been the runt of the litter. She was now Gretel's size and acted as if she were aware that posturing was part of her raison d'être.

Rowdy ignored Gretel, and stood motionless as a molded figure, her eyes on Ann. Only a slight quivering of muscle along her flank suggested that she lived and was not cast from tawny bronze. Ann caught her breath in pride. Then suddenly it was all over.

Rowdy was tired of posing. She lifted a giant paw and gave Gretel a playful wallow across the head. A moment later, they were mauling each other around the room.

"They're a great pair," Christopher admitted. "Ought never to be separated. Too bad they'll just be out of the puppy class by the Morris and Essex Show. I'd take a chance of showing them if they weren't."

"Well, why not?"

"Puppy class is one thing. But in the American Bred or Novice class, they'd be up against some pretty stiff competition. There'll be close to a hundred of the best Danes in the country at that show."

"I wouldn't be afraid," said Ann. "Competition is the life of trade."

"Well, it's the life of the dog business anyway," Christopher agreed. "Only you don't show everything you've got until you're sure it's the best you've got—Quit it, you roughnecks, before you tear the room to pieces!" He turned to Ann. "I'm taking them to the sweepstakes myself, but I'm leaving too early in the morning to bring them in to see you. Better wish Rowdy luck now."

"Good luck, Rowdy dear," said Ann docilely. "See that you bring me a nice blue ribbon."

The nurse suspected nothing the next morning when Ann professed great interest in Miss Drew's little niece who was acting in a school play near New London.

"I wouldn't think of your missing the performance for worlds, Miss Drew. I'm perfectly all right to be left alone. I've been outdoors for two days now. I'm practically well. Besides, Emma Jeeves is here. I can always call on her, you know, if I need any thing."

Miss Drew hesitated, full of conflict. Susie was to be Little Miss Muffet in her theatrical world debut via Consolidated School District No. 9's Spring exercises. Susie was the apple of Miss Drew's eye.

"If you're sure," she murmured. Ann was sure. Miss Drew, overcome with gratitude, went about the job of leaving everything so that it would run like clockwork during her absence.

The mairnspring of Miss Drew's carefully planned clockwork went out of kilter as her car left the driveway. Ann looked at her watch. She would have none too much time. She rang the bell for Emma Jeeves.

"We'll be ready to leave in twenty minutes," she announced when Emma's towel-wrapped head peered in at the door. Emma was dusting, and when Emma dusted she always wrapped a towel about her head, on the theory, Ann supposed, that even if you noticed no difference in the room when she was finished, you would know that she had been dusting.

"Ready to leave for where?" Emma Jeeves' New England caution evidenced itself. "Didn't know as you was supposed to be allowed out. Nurse didn't say anything about it."

"Maybe the nurse didn't, but what about the doctor? Ann quibbled shamelessly. "Best thing in the world for me. Get in the car and go for a nice drive with you."

"Well, a nice drive might help." Emma whipped the towel from her head with alacrity. She didn't like dusting, anyway.

Fortunately Ann had worn the smartest of her tweed suits the day she'd come down sick.

"Where do we go?" Emma asked, as she squared herself importantly before the wheel of Ann's car.

"Oh, just down this road a bit." The car started forward jerkily.

Ann repressed a smile as she glanced at Emma's life-and-death grip on the wheel.

Upon reaching the broad straight concrete Emma let herself go. Ann watched the speedometer crawl all the way up to thirty-five before it hovered to a stop. She watched Emma's face. She thought, I could take her all the way into New York and she wouldn't see anything but the pavement in front of her.

"Give her a little more gas, Emma," she coaxed. "It's fun to drive fast."

"My old flivver won't go no faster'n this. I never drove a car as good as yours."

This was rare praise for Ann's old coupe. "Let her out," she invited. "I'll bet she'll do as high as sixty with a good driver."

Emma let her out. The needle hovered at fifty. Her eyes glistened with excitement. Plain, stolid Emma Jeeves was transformed into a thing of force and power, a Yankee Valkyrie mounted on an iron steed. As they crossed the Connecticut line, Ann began unostentatiously to guide her. Ten miles away from Crestview, the crossroads were marked Puppy Sweepstakes, and a big red arrow pointed left. Emma observed, "We ought to be circling pretty well back to home. This has been quite a drive for your first day out."

"We might stop off at some friends of mine who live here. I could stretch a bit," Ann suggested brazenly, as the red arrows made an abrupt right-hand turn into a private drive.

The driveway was long, winding and impressive. But even the driveway did not prepare Ann for what was disclosed when they drove over the brow of the hill.

Crestview was one of those enormous pseudo-English manorial establishments that you read about in books but hardly ever believe are real.

"Drive over that way, not up to the house," Ann guided Emma toward a meadow where five or six hundred cars were parked—limousines with chauffeurs in livery, old jalopies beside which her own coupe need not cringe or develop an inferiority complex, and a collection representing the entire history of the development of the station wagon.... All in all, it was a fine cross-section of democracy. "So this is the dog business?" Ann mused.

"Your friends must be giving a party," Emma said dryly. She was recovering from her orgy of speed and was beginning to orient herself.

"Seems you put something over on me. Seems were pretty far from home."

"Oh, we can't be too far," Ann offered airily, and added under her breath, "not more than half the state of Connecticut anyway."

"A drive is one thing, but you shouldn't be walking around," Emma fretted as Ann stepped out of the car.

"I won't be long," she promised. "You wait here."

Ann started to thread her way toward a huge tented area in gay red and white canvas. A mad din of barking made the signs Show Ring and Benching superfluous.

She stopped to rest, because her knees suddenly felt as if they had turned into rubber. Perhaps it was foolhardy of her to have attempted so long a trip. She passed a canopy under which sandwiches and tea were being served. She hesitated. She really ought to stop for a hot drink, but Christopher had said that the Danes were to be shown at eleven-thirty. It was now almost quarter of twelve.

Draft to Summon Ohio War Workers

COLUMBUS, Aug. 5.—Col. C. W. Goble, state director of Selective Service, said today 78,000 war workers in 800 Ohio plants were subject to the draft and that about 70.7 per cent of the eligibles would be called within six months.

Goble explained Selective Service headquarters keeps records on the draft status of workers at plants participating in the replacement schedule program.

Under this arrangement, he said, Selective Service informs employers in advance that an employee is to be called for Army service and

Lisbon Is Beset By Teacher Shortage

LISBON, Aug. 5.—The Lisbon board of education, preparing for the opening of the fall term of school next month, has filled several teacher vacancies.

Miss Helen Gilbert, who has taught grade 4 at the Lincoln school for several years, has been employed in a war plant in Cleveland during the summer months, and has decided to continue in her work there. Mrs. Leo J. Hockman, Hephner Hollow doad, will succeed her at the Lincoln building. Mrs. Hockman has taught in Center township schools for several years.

A vacancy yet to be filled was caused by the resignation of H. L. Reuter, science instructor in the High school. Mr. Reuter has been employed in the soil conservation office at the courthouse, and he will forego teaching during the next year and continue in his present work.

John Cavalier, who has been coaching at Central Catholic school in Allentown, Pa., during the last year, had been secured as head coach of David Anderson High school, but yesterday was released from his contract by the members of the board at his request. Cavalier has accepted a position in the Greentown, Stark county schools.

allows the employer time to train replacements.

In contrast, plants not participating in the program often receive no advance notice of their employees' imminent induction, Goble said.

"What's Buzzin' Cousin?" will be the feature at the State Friday and Saturday. The locale of the story is a western ghost town. Freddy Martin and members of his band are stranded in the deserted hotel of the town, and then four young ladies, headed by Ann Miller, find themselves stranded in the same town. With Rochester along as handy man, the setting is perfect. The boys and girls decide to stay and bring the town back to life. There are molsters and a phony gold rush to add to the fun in the musical.

Soap Outlook Brighter, Lard Processors Report

CHICAGO, Aug. 5. — Meat and lard processors today said an unusually heavy supply of lard stocks in warehouses indicated a better outlook for the nation's dwindling soap supply.

Dealers said that with housewives disinclined to use their red stamps for lard, prospects of moving the surplus was not bright.

A big outlet for lard over recent months has been the War Food administration, which had required that 50 per cent of total production be set aside for government use. But this week the WFA, by suspending that requirement, sharply reduced possible outlets.

OPA Answers Some of Those Questions You've Submitted

The Office of Price Administration compiled today a list of questions most frequently asked and set down the answers. Here they are:

Q. My B book expires Aug. 31 and I have only four coupons in it. Can I obtain additional gasoline for a 350-mile vacation trip into the east?

A. No. War Price and Rationing boards are not authorized to give "extra" gasoline for vacation trips; motorists can take these trips only on their existing ration. Thus A book holders have a maximum non-occupational ration of 480 miles for a two-month period, and B and C book holders have 180 miles.

Q. Can a butcher force a customer to buy items such as cold cuts, tripe, etc., in order to obtain a retail cut of beef?

A. No. This is definitely not permitted and OPA asks all housewives to report such violations to their local War Price and Rationing boards.

Q. Is a rent increase permitted in all cases where there has been a substantial increase in the services, furniture, furnishings or equipment provided with the housing accommodations since June 1, 1942?

A. Not in all cases. No increase in the maximum rent shall be ordered unless the increase occurred in the consent of the tenant or while the accommodations were vacant, provided, however, that an adjustment may be ordered, even though the tenant refuses to consent to the increase if it is determined that such increase is reasonably required for the operation of a multiple dwelling structure or other structure of which the accommodations are a part, or if the increase is necessary for the preservation or maintenance of the accommodations.

Q. I returned shoes I wore only twice to my dealer and, though he will give me a new pair in exchange, he demands another stamp. Is this correct?

A. Yes. Only new shoes may be exchanged without stamps for new shoes. A worn shoe is not considered a new shoe. If the shoe was defective and not a misfit and was returned within 30 days after purchase, the dealer can give you a statement indicating that you have returned such shoes to him. If this statement is properly presented to your local War Price and Rationing board, a special shoe stamp will be issued to you.

Q. How long is the special shoe stamp good?

A. For 30 days after the date of issue.

Q. What is the ceiling price on cabbage?

A. The highest legal price at retail is 6 cents per pound.

Q. I hold only an A book. Am I entitled to new tires?

A. No. Motorists with A books, unless their cars are used for occupational purposes, are only permitted recapping service and new tubes.

Q. Shouldn't a retail meat market have the retail ceiling price chart on display?

A. Yes, each retail market must have the retail ceiling price chart on display. Moreover, it is important that this chart be displayed in a manner such that it may be easily read by all customers in the market.

Q. Is there a ceiling price on meals served on trains?

A. Yes, standardized "economy" meals are provided at 85 cents for breakfast, $1 for lunch, and $1.10 dinner. Other a la carte meals, including alcoholic beverages, are frozen at the highest prices charged during the Feb. 1-April 10, 1943, base period.

Q. In applying at my War Price and Rationing board for my 15 pounds of canned sugar, now that I have used the 10 pounds obtained with stamps No. 15 and 16, will I be allowed sugar for making jelly?

A. Yes, because of butter scarcity, OPA this year has made it possible to obtain five pounds of sugar per person for making jams, jellies, preserves, and fruit butter. This five pounds is included in the total of 25 pounds available for canning.

Farm Bureau Head Sees More Freedom For Farmer In 1944

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—President Edward A. O'Neal of the American Farm Bureau federation expressed belief today farmers would have more freedom next year in determining their individual crop and livestock production programs.

"The trend in agriculture," he said, "is definitely away from central government control and toward more local, individual control."

O'Neal made this statement after conferring with War Food Administrator Marvin Jones on plans for the 1944 food program which, Jones has announced, will call for record plantings of 380,000,000 acres to food and feed crops and the maintenance of livestock production at near the present peak.

One of the questions discussed with Jones, the Farm Bureau chief said, was the matter of obtaining farmer cooperation with production goals of various crops to be set up under the food program. The food administrator has indicated that AAA acreage allotments and rigid marketing quotas—with the exception of the non-food crop of tobacco—would be abandoned.

O'Neal said Jones had asked officers of various major farm organizations to give him their ideas on what next year's program should contain.

Tentative plans call for national, state and county goals for various crops. Each farmer would be asked to produce as much as he could of the vitally-needed crops. The government would depend upon production credit, minimum government-guaranteed prices, war risk insurance, and material grants to obtain the desired production.

Services Checked After Telegraph Co. Merger

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—The Federal Communications commission today ordered an investigation into the recent closing of Postal Telegraph offices in connection with the firm's proposed merger with Western Union.

The action followed a complaint filed June 26 by the American Communications association that such closures were causing "inconveniences, reductions and impairment" of telegraph service.

Both Postal and Western Union officials testified at recent hearings that the closings had not resulted in any impairment of service.

purposes: 10 pounds through stamps 15 and 16, and 15 pounds by application for your local war price and rationing board.

Q. Has a retail price been established for fresh berries?

A. Effective July 29, the retail price for fresh berries is as follows: red raspberries, 35 cents a quart; black raspberries, 35 cents; youngberries, boysenberries, loganberries, and blackberries, 33 cents; and gooseberries, 26 cents a quart.

Q. I am a Nurse's Aide. Can I get a stamp for extra shoes for this work?

A. Yes, if you have no stamps in your family that you can use. If there are stamps available in your family you are required to use them for any shoes you may need. After all your family's stamps are used, if you need shoes, application may be made to your local War Price and Rationing board.

Q. Can a garage increase its rates for public parking or storage of automobiles?

A. No. Under maximum price regulation No. 165, a garage or parking place should not charge more than the rates charged to the public in March, 1942, for the same service to a customer of the same class.

Q. Are dentists' or doctors' fees covered by price control?

A. No. Professional services, such as those performed by doctors and dentists, are at present exempted from price control.

Ten Major League Pitchers Head For 20-Game Record

ONLY FOUR LEAGUE HURLERS ATTAINED HONORS LAST YEAR

Rip Sewell Tops National Roster, Spud Chandler The American

BY TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer
The major leagues may be able to boast of 10 or more 20-game winning pitchers this year compared to only four in 1942.

Where only four Cooper, Johnny Beazley, Ernie Bonham and Tex Hughson were able to make the grade a year ago, five twirlers already seem certain of reaching the coveted 20-game goal with 10 others having better than an even chance.

Topped by the veteran 35-year-old Rip Sewell of the Pittsburgh Pirates, the National League claims four of the five twirlers virtually certain of winning 20 games. Sewell has won 17 and lost two. Cooper, Cardinal ace, has a record of 15-6. Elmer Riddle of Cincinnati, with 14-5, and Hi Bithorn of the Cubs, with 13-8, round out the senior loop quartet.

Spud Chandler of the New York Yankees is the only American league pitcher within whistling distance of the charmed circle. He has won 13 and lost three.

Chance To Repeat
Bonham, who won 21 for the Yankees last year, and Hughson, who was credited with 22 for the Boston Red Sox in 1942, each have a chance to repeat. Big Ernie has won 10 and lost five for the Yanks; Hughson has chalked up 11 wins against seven setbacks.

In the "maybe" class may be placed Ray Starr of Cincinnati, 10-8; Claude Passeau of the Cubs, 10-7; Oscar Judd of the Red Sox, 10-6; Alex Carrasquel and Early Wynn of Washington, 10-5 and 11-7, respectively; Jim Bagby and Al Smith of Cleveland, 11-10 and 10-3, respectively; Dizzy Trout of Detroit, 10-9; and Orval Grove of the White Sox, 10-1.

Al Javery of the Boston Braves, Johnny Vander Meer of the Reds, Virgil Trucks of Detroit and Buck Newsum of the Browns have "outside" chances of hitting the 20-game mark. Each has won nine times.

Pittsburgh came up with four runs in the seventh inning to beat the Phillies, 6 to 2, in the only game played in both leagues yesterday.

The victory tightened the Pirates' grip on second place.

Haegg In Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, Aug. 5.—The famous Gunder Haegg of Sweden will step off a two-mile exhibition here Saturday night instead of one-mile as originally planned.

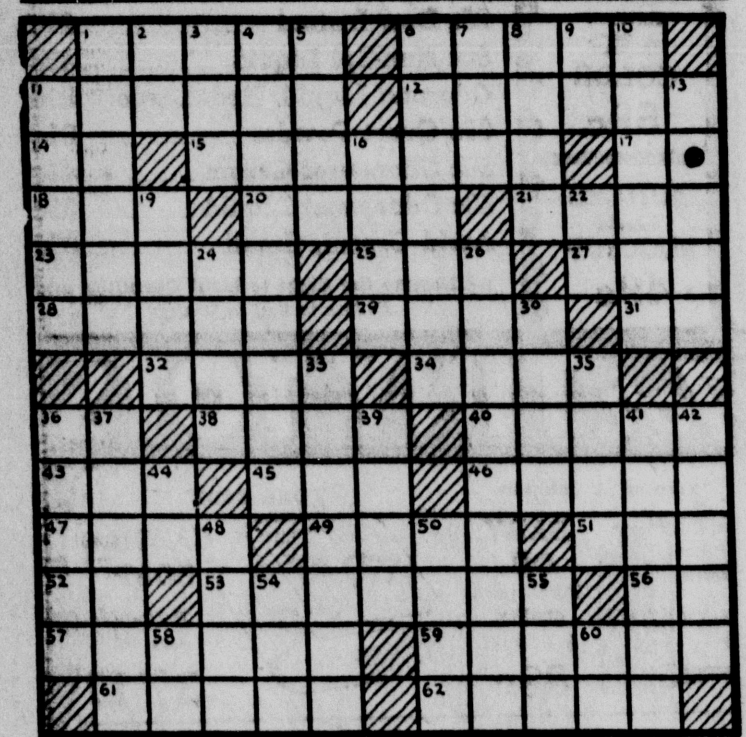

Haegg requested an extension of the distance so he could attempt to improve his own world record of 8.474 for two miles.

Other runners in the event include Gilbert Dodds, who will start even with Haegg, and Bill Hulce, who will be given a handicap.

Drops Dead On Track

XENIA, Aug. 5.—After winning the second heat of the $1,000 free-for-all race at Greene county fairgrounds yesterday, Senator Abbe, a six-year-old gelding, dropped dead on the track. Senator Abbe owned a racing mark of 1:58 4/5 for the mile.

ANNUAL CLAM BAKE DRAWS BIG CROWD

Many Win Prizes In Blind Bogey, Other Events at Salem Golf Club

Rain spoiled the plans for a full day of golf at the Salem Golf club's annual clam bake festivities Wednesday, but about 75 managed to get in at least one round.

The blind bogey tournament attracted most of them. Winners were Cliff Greenisen, Vincent Judge, Dr. M. M. Sandrock, W. W. Paiffie, Dr. L. W. King, William Smith, Chet Gow, Dr. L. A. Cobbs and C. A. Whittier of Salem; J. E. Mountford and Howard Moninger of East Liverpool; B. M. Clarke of Canton; and J. P. Connors of Youngstown.

Other prize winners were: Cliff Greenisen, eagle on No. 3; Bob Snyder of Salem, B. M. Clarke of Canton and Severn P. Ker of Youngstown, birdies in No. 6; Dr. Clarence Hartsough of Mansfield and Gene Summers, closest to No. 6 hole on drive; County Treasurer Olin H. Dawson of East Liverpool, highest score, 122.

G. R. Taylor of Cleveland had the best gross score with 77, an excellent card for the tough Salem course.

A large crowd of Salem members, and guests from practically every place in the county as well as Canton and Youngstown, attended the clam bake in the evening.

BUCKY WALTERS ON MOUND FOR 'CINCY'

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—Bucky Walters, starting after his second 100 victories as a Cincinnati Red, is the pitcher today as the team opens a three-week tour against the Chicago Cubs.

Bucky also is after his seventh win of the current year, during which he has lost 11 for the worst season since he came here from the Phillies in 1938. Hiram Bithorn is the Cubs' choice to keep Bucky from improving it.

The Reds put on a twilight exhibition at nearby Fort Sheridan yesterday, downing the soldiers, 5 to 0. Ray Starr, Jack Nieves and Joe Beggs held the port to seven hits and the Reds took advantage of four walks and two errors in the fourth inning to score four of their runs.

U. S. Civilian Population Drops 3,100,000 Since '40

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5—A drop of 3,100,000 in the civilian population of the United States during the past three years, despite a record birth rate, was reported today by the Census Bureau.

Between April 1, 1940 and March 1, 1943, the civilian population went from 131,300,000 to 128,200,000, reflecting the growth of the armed services at a rate far outstripping natural gains, the bureau declared.

The estimated civilian population of Ohio as of March 1, 1943 and April 1, 1940, was 6,810,136 and 6,904,423.

FAMILIES HOMELESS IN CENTRAL OHIO

Regions Are Inundated as Streams Overflow Banks After Flash Floods

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, Aug. 5.—Heavy rains sent streams throughout central Ohio flowing out of their banks today and forced hundreds of persons to evacuate their homes.

Ninety families moved out of two Columbus suburbs as Big Walnut creek overflowed its banks. Forty families were evacuated from the Wonderland addition north of Port Columbus and 50 families were forced out in Gould park.

The Franklin county sheriff's office said a cloudburst in the northern section of the county caused the already-swollen Big Walnut to overflow.

George Mindling, U. S. weather observer, said the Scioto river's drainage basin was overtaken by the heavy downpour. He reported rainfall throughout the basin north of Circleville averaged two inches yesterday and predicted the Scioto would go at least three feet above its 17-foot flood stage at Circleville sometime today.

Mindling said March had a four-inch fall.

At St. Marys, John Sunderland, superintendent of Lake St. Marys, reported three inches of rain fell there yesterday, flooding basements in homes in the low sections.

The state highway patrol reported nearly a dozen central Ohio roads blocked by water last night, but all were clear today except Route 16, about 10 miles south of that I received a letter from an anonymous Nazi sympathizer, signing himself "a soldier," who took me to task for saying that the indications were the Reds would take Orel. He said it was a preposterous suggestion, and sang the praises of the Boche. There are a lot of these Fifth Columnists still about.

The fighting which has preceded this victory has been titanic—reminiscent of the struggle at Stalingrad. The Russians drove forward, in the face of the best defense which Hitler could muster, until they all but had Orel surrounded. Complete encirclement would have meant the annihilation of a Nazi force of some 250,000 men, but it would appear that the German command has been able to withdraw many of them.

Orel not only is a strong point, but it is a vital railway center. Its capture will enable the Russians to reopen vital rail communications between Moscow and the southern sectors.

The ultimate effect of the fall of Orel might be catastrophic for the Germans, if the Russians have the strength to develop it. However, this is no time to jump to sweeping conclusions.

Forward Milk Price Plea

To National OPA Office

CLEVELAND, Aug. 5.—Representatives of milk producers and dealers in five states today prepared to appeal to the National

Office of Price Administration for an increase in milk prices.

Drivers from Ohio, Indiana,

Kentucky, West Virginia and Michigan decided to present their case direct to Washington after D. E.

Welch, regional OPA price executive, informed them present OPA policy did not include over-all milk price adjustments.

"Milk price increases are imperative if the production of milk is to be maintained at the present level," J. I. Schafer of Akron, president of the Ohio Milk Producers federation, told the meeting here yesterday.

Schafer said area representatives also would ask OPA officials to oppose milk rationing or subsidies.

Cancels Trailer Order

TOLEDO, Aug. 5.—The National

Housing agency in Washington cancelled an order to install 240 additional trailers at a camp at nearby Port Clinton. The agency said the housing situation there has eased. There are 100 trailers

there now.

Closed to Labor

CINCINNATI, Aug. 5.—Hamilton and Clermont counties in Ohio and Kenton, Campbell and Boone counties in Kentucky are closed to outside labor, the War Manpower commission announced, in order to achieve better use of available manpower in the Cincinnati area.

BRITISH CAPTURE TOWN OF PATERNO

Germans, Abandoning Etna Defense Line, Retreat Toward Messina

all along the enemy's mountainous bridgehead British and American forces plunged forward for new gains.

The British by their continued bombardments of Taormina acted to paralyze if not cut the Germans' east coast supply—and retreat—route.

The enemy's line of retreat from Catania is a three-mile-wide corridor between the mountains and the sea and in that harsh, rugged strip there are a number of points where he might attempt a stand.

Catania's capture in effect turned the German flank on the east coast and the British surged ahead on the slopes of Mt. Etna facing the sea.

Seek To Stem Advance

The enemy frantically planted mines and blew up bridges in attempting to stem the inexorable Allied advance.

Catania represented the hardest and bloodiest victory of the entire campaign.

But official reports said Montgomery's triumph, as brilliant as any he achieved in Africa, was made at a relatively slight cost of his soldiers' lives.

Catania can be converted rapidly to Allied use. The big port once accommodated 2,000 ships a year and liners of 50-foot draft entered there.

Front dispatches said American troops were making steady progress in the north.

An official report said relations between German and Italian troops were worsening. One Italian captured said he had been a sapper but was forced into the infantry for the final defense of the city during which "I killed more Germans than I killed Englishmen."

Lieut. Roosevelt, Jr., Assures Mother Of Boy In U. S. Service

By HAROLD V. BOYLE

WITH THE AMERICAN SEVENTH ARMY IN NORTHERN SICILY, July 29.—(Delayed)—Leaves from a war reporter's notebook:

A tall young American naval lieutenant walked along the waterfront of a Sicilian port. His summer work uniform was wrinkled, and there was a hole in the heel of his left sock. He looked a little tired, but his face was friendly as he paused to look in a shop window. A Sicilian woman stepped up to speak to him.

She told him that she had lived in the United States but returned to Sicily leaving her son behind because he wanted to stay in America. Since then he had joined the Navy. She wanted to know if the young lieutenant knew him, and whether her son's Sicilian ancestry would handicap him in the service.

Son of President

"Your son is not on my vessel, and I do not know him," the lieutenant answered, "but wherever he is with the United States Navy, he is being well treated."

He assured her that her son would not suffer any prejudice because his parents came from a country with which the United States was at war. The woman turned away satisfied after thanking the lieutenant. She did not know he was Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., son of the President.

Brave men whose courage is tempered with battle caution make the best soldiers. Veteran campaigners develop an attitude bordering on contempt for the foot-dragger soldier, often he risks lives as well as his own needlessly and for no purpose. In war the penalty for a careless action follows promptly.

During the march on Palermo the column was held up in a deep gorge 15 miles from the city by a German 88 millimeter gun emplaced on a ridge. Around a bend in the road, a platoon of riflemen was sent to flank the gun from the surrounding hills.

Against the advice of the others, one rifleman—an Ohio farm boy—tried to shortcut the problem by worming his way down into a little ravine and approaching the gun head-on.

The others worked slowly around the mountain ridges until they were in position over the gun. With a burst of fire they killed two of the 88 millimeter gun's crew and the others fled. They were quickly rounded up, however, as an American self-propelled assault gun rounded the bend and blasted the unmanned 88 millimeter piece and its ammunition with four quick shots.

In the ravine, the rifleman found the body of an Ohio farm boy. He had been easy prey for the German gun crew. One had picked him off with a bullet through the back.

"He won't plow no more," said one rifleman looking at the face of his comrade. "If he had stuck with us he wouldn't be where he is now."

Buildings Approved

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Construction of an additional building at the Chertle Veterans hospital has been approved by the Veterans administration.

PROPERTY OWNERS! . . . TURN "OLD" HOUSES INTO "NEW" HOMES . . . With FLINTKOTE BRICK-TYPE Siding

You can make an old house more rentable, more salable and more livable by putting FLINTKOTE BRICK-TYPE SIDING over the old siding. This handsome new siding looks just like expensive brick. It increases the value of a house—often as much as $1000—yet the entire job costs but little more than painting.

FLINTKOTE SIDING helps keep a house cooler in summer—warmer and easier to heat in winter. It eliminates periodic staining or painting, and pays for itself within a few years.
